Caspar David Friedrich (1774–1840) was a German Romantic landscape painter known for his evocative depictions of nature that explore themes of transcendence, solitude, and the sublime. His works often feature contemplative figures gazing over vast, dramatic landscapes, symbolizing the human experience in relation to the infinite and the unknown. Masterpieces like Wanderer Above the Sea of Fog and The Monk by the Sea reflect his deep spiritual vision and his pioneering role in Romanticism, making him one of the most influential artists of his time.
